

Q: What happened to CNN's Daryn Kagan?

ANNA RAWLS, Gig Harbor, Wash.

CNN did not renew Kagan's contract, but "we're living in a time where one person can be a media company," she tells me, so that's what she did.

She has a documentary on PBS this month, Breaking the Curse with Daryn Kagan, and she produces inspirational news stories for her website, darynkagan.com. "They are the kind of stories I always wanted to do," Kagan, 44, says. She recently signed a contract to compile the stories for a book to come out next spring.